Department of Cinema and TV

ABOUT

The Cinema and Television Department offers a low-cost, comprehensive, hands-on training program that provides both basic and advanced courses in film, video and television studio production. Founded in 1969, our groundwork has been built upon providing students with the technical skills and creative guidance to prepare them for professions in the entertainment industry. Our location in Los Angeles gives students the opportunity to obtain more networking opportunities, internships, and contacts right in the center of the industry.

FACILITIES

In addition to low enrollment fees, LACC offers both audio and camera equipment, allowing for students to create and explore their own visual projects. Students have access to digital cameras, audio recorders, and field lighting kits for student productions.

- Three Sound stages, one dedicated to single-camera use and two equipped for multi-camera television
- Digital non-linear editing rooms
- Three screening rooms

DEGREES / CERTIFICATES OFFERED

Students can choose from an Associate of Arts Degree in Cinema or Television Production (AA), Film, Television, and Electronic Media Associate Degree for Transfer (ADT) and/or earn skills certificates and certificates of achievement in Cinema Production, Cinema-Video Production, Television Production, Cinematography, Directing, and Producing.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Our Cinema and TV Department is recognized internationally as a comprehensive, world class training program. More recently, we received a two million dollar gift from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association (Golden Globes™), allowing the program to thrive.
